

The Way, the Truth, and the Life

What is the most valuable thing in existence? Is it gold and gems? Is it irrefutable power? Is it fame? The question one should ask is: ‘What do people fear losing the most?’ The answer is invariably their lives. People’s greatest fear is death - by sword, by fire, by plague or by murder.

Life is the essence of God’s grace bestowed unto the power of the mother. It cannot be forced, sold, oppressed or deemed useless. When a woman gives birth, another image of Christ is born into the world; conceived in the mother’s womb is the seed of nature: life. This miraculous gift is not to be taken for granted.

Pro-lifers fight for all life and against life threatening or irreverence to life, such as abortion, slavery (human trafficking), and murder, all of which disrespect the value of life, but through different means. From a logical viewpoint, abortion is, at its core, unjustifiable murder. The baby who is to die has no warning about his\her unnerving death, neither the chance to choose his fate, nor the ability to save himself\herself according to his\her free will, eerily similar to a crime. How could one be killed without the chance to defend oneself? This leads to another very important purpose of being pro-life: to be the voice of all those fellow innocent humans who don’t have one yet.

According to the United Nations: “Human rights are rights inherent to all human beings, regardless of race, sex, nationality, ethnicity, language, religion, or any other status. Human rights include the right to life and liberty from slavery and torture, freedom of opinion and expression, the right to work and education, and many more. Everyone is entitled to these rights, without discrimination.” We all understand that unborn babies are human beings (not dog, cat or elephant beings) with a human DNA, a human mother and a human father, and find themselves in a temporary unborn status. Abortion deprives all unborn human beings from all of their human rights by robbing the most fundamental one: the right to live, therefore clearly violating what the United Nations has presently established.

Our constitution also states “We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness....” - US Constitution.

Pro-lifers firmly believe that the fundamental truth is that every human has the right to life. Believing that the U.S. Constitution and the United Nations confirm that truth, and abortion denies it, it can be logically concluded that abortion could never be the path to the truth. Likewise, since it is given that abortion rejects human rights and being pro-life denies abortion, then being pro-life protects human rights. Hence being pro-life is logically valid and proves itself the right way to follow, the real truth that shines, and the true life that always prevails.
